

Campbel, in the debate on the subject of his superseding Mr. Everett as chairman of the committee on foreign relations, said, that "he considered it proper that the heads of committees should be in the habit of confidential intercourse with the executive." When the monarchial doctrine is openly avowed on the floor of Congress, we may consider the reality not far off. The King of the French cannot control the action of the Chambers; the King of England cannot command Parliament at his will; yet pretended democrats avow their willingness to bring the representatives of the free people in Congress to the feet of the President.

The separation and independence of the legislative and executive branches of our government were once deemed the pillars of public safety, but are now to be broken down by the base sycophants of power and patronage.

Distressing Event.—We learn from the Courier and Enquirer, that the painful apprehensions that had been entertained of some unfortunate persons having been buried under the ruins of the late fire in Gold street, are unhappily realized. On digging into the rubbish, the workmen perceived an unusually disagreeable odour, and shortly after, the mutilated flesh and burnt bones of two human bodies! The most extraordinary part of it is, that there has been no public advertisement, or announcement of any persons missing; a proof of the extent and motley character of our population.

A western editor acknowledges the receipt of $100, being a gentleman's subscriptions in advance for forty years. So laudable an example is worthy of emulation, and we should like to ascertain which of our subscribers is determined to be first in doing "the clean thing" for us after this fashion. As the old lady said when an obstreperous admirer threatened to kiss her, "I should like to catch him at it."

A man in Somerset county not having any other convenience, yoked a young calf and wether together, and thus got his stock of wood to his house. "Necessity is truly the mother of invention."—Bangor Whig.

Railroad Rioters.—One of the rioters on the Washington railroad has been convicted of murder in the first degree, and another in the second degree, at Baltimore, for killing William Mercer during the late riots in Maryland.

New Orleans.—Five Irishmen, employed in paving the streets, while returning home were attacked in Esplanade street by two ruffians, armed with knives. One of the laborers, John Knox, was killed on the spot, and another so badly injured as to threaten his existence; the other three were slightly wounded.

Forthcoming work.—A treat of no ordinary character is in store for the reading public—nothing less than a Life of Martin Van Buren, by Col. David Crockett. The colonel, though a literary man of great eminence and success, is yet, as the world very well knows, wholly unopinionated.—Baltimore Patriot.

The opinion of the Evening Post of the Albany Argus:—

"They are a set of creeping, designing, dissembling creatures, who have grown fat on the drippings of unclean bank legislation—a knot of cat-pawed, sly-faced, cringing, artful, busy fellows, who go about the members of the legislature, smiling and bowing and shaking hands with all they meet, and disclosing their schemes in broken whispers, eked out with knowing shrugs and nods—they are men who strive to turn all political questions into a lever to raise up and set in motion their own nasty selfish projects. Of this cabal we believe the state printer to be the soul and centre, and we leave to him the enviable task of naming his associates."

A Ride Gratis.—We learn that a few days since, while a young lady was crossing one of our streets in the vicinity of the State House, which affords the boys an opportunity to practice their favorite, but exceedingly annoying amusement of coasting, she was struck with a sled, which came with prodigious force, tripped up her heels, and laid her fairly on her back, as a sailor would say, "fore and aft," across the sled. The poor boy instead of being overjoyed, was sadly frightened at such an unexpected accession of fright—but the impetus which the vehicle had already acquired was so great, that he found it impossible to check its speed; he therefore wisely judged it best to make the most of his bargain, and with admirable presence of mind, steered the sled with great care, avoiding all obstacles, at the same time bawling out with the lungs of a Stentor, "Hold on Ma'am, hold on—keep your feet well up, and there is no danger." The double-loaded sled sped with the velocity of an arrow—and the astonished damsel, who never travelled at such a rate before, and probably never will again, even on a rail road, or in an air balloon, found herself, before she had hardly time to take breath, or scream for assistance, safely landed at the bottom of the hill!—Mercantile Journal.

Mr. Theodore Fenn, the Editor of the Harrisburgh Journal, [formerly of Canaan, Conn.] has been excluded from the bar of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, by a vote of 82 to 29, for publishing "improper language concerning the domestic relations of a member." What nonsense!

Well done.—A proposition made in the Alabama Legislature (nearly all Jackson) to abide the result of the Baltimore Convention, was literally kicked out of the house by a vote of sixty-one to eight! It is just the estimate that should be placed on that Kitchen Cabinet assemblage.

The Ursuline Convent.—The Catholic Bishop of Boston and others, have petitioned the Legislature of Massachusetts for remuneration for the destruction of the Ursuline Convent. The petition was laid on the table, and the Legislature has refused to remunerate them.

A New Orleans paper affirms that Missouri is the only state in the Union, which has not a Bank incorporated by the State Legislature. The only Bank in that State is a branch of the U. S. at St. Louis.

JUST received and for sale by Jan. 1. M. MORSE.

E. A. LORD,
A PAMPHLET, by N. WEBSTER, LL. D. (price 12 1/2 cents,) containing
1. A Brief View of errors in the common version of the Scriptures, some of which, if not known to readers, involve certain passages in confusion, as Calmet and other expositors of the sacred writings have remarked. Also, notices of improprieties and obscurities of language, proceeding from changes in the use of words since the version was made, some of which render particular passages unintelligible to common readers; also, notices of inaccuracies of grammar, which are very numerous; with remarks on the use of a version of the sacred oracles, containing, in some passages, phraseology which decency does not permit to be read in public or in families.
2. Examples of discrepancies in the orthography of English words, in the Dictionaries of Johnson, Walker, and others, with examples of mistakes resulting from them, in the versions of the Scriptures; showing that false principles are constantly taught in our Seminaries of learning.
3. Plagiarisms committed on the author's writings, by Lindley Murray, Israel Alger, Jr., and J. E. Worcester.

STOVES.
THE subscriber has on hand a greater variety of COOKING STOVES than he has ever before been able to offer to the people of this vicinity. The assortment in part consists of S. J. Gold's Patent, two sizes—Bidwell's improvement on Gold's Patent—the noted and very much approved Rotary Stove, of which there are four sizes, the smallest being calculated for small families, and the largest sufficiently large for public houses—and Gold's improvement, which is the latest pattern now offered. This pattern combines the principle of the Rotary Stove with that of Bidwell's and the old pattern—and has in addition a large oven within the stove, which we think the best we have ever noticed. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine the above stoves, which we think cannot fail to please.
MOSES MORSE, Sole Agent for this vicinity for the above Stoves.
Also, a few Shop Stoves of entirely new patterns, superior to any yet introduced, with Franklin and Parlor Stoves expected. Those who are in want of either of these articles, will do well to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.
